BRANDON JOINS THE DEMOCRATIC HOSTS AWAITING OPENING OF STATE MEETING

Convention Will Be Called to Order At One O'Clock
Thursday.

HOTEL RESERVATIONS
ENTIRELY TAKEN UP

Other Delegates Must Find Accommodations In Private Homes In Capital.

(Montgomery Bureau, Albany-Decatur Daily)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 6.—
Judge W. W. Brandon of Tuscaloosa, governor-designate, joined the vanguard in Montgomery today for the first state Democratic convention in ten years which will be opened at the Grand theater at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Judge Brandon was on the ground early and held various conferences with his supporters.

Other prominent citizens who will be delegates to the convention began arriving during the day and by night a large number were in the city. All rooms at the hotels have been reserved and those who have made no reservations will be forced to find quarters in private homes and boarding houses.

Although the convention will be composed of only three hundred and forty-two Democrats, it is probable that fifteen hundred persons will be here for the convention. Interest is great because the party has not had a convention since 1912 and because there are a large number of subjects which must be included in the platform and several which have been in the platform adopted in 1912 must be eliminated as obsolete and inoperative.

Judge Brandon's friends are insisting that the convention adopt a platform in line with the platform promulgated by Judge Brandon in his successful campaign for governor. There is every indication that a great majority of the delegates will be in favor of this proposal as they were elected on platforms quite similar to Judge Brandon's.

Sydney J. Bowie of Birmingham arrived early Tuesday, while John H.
Bankhead, Jr., of Jasper, who probably will be permanent chairman of the convention, came Tuesday evening. Ray Rushton, who is expected to be temporary chairman, is already in Montgomery, his home.

James H. Webb, chairman of the state Democratic executive committee, who will call the convention to order, arrived from his home at Mobile Tuesday and was in conference with the convention committee preparing for the opening session. Members of the convention committee of the state Democratic executive committee are J. C. Milner of Vernon, who is chairman; W. D. Nesbitt of Birmingham, Borden Burr of Birmingham, L. L.
Boykin of Seale and W. F. Miller of Tusculum. Mr. Milner is detained at his home because of illness in his family but hopes to arrive before the day of the convention.

The convention committee, with the assistance of Roy R. Cox of Montgomery, who probably will be named permanent secretary, completed preliminary plans for the convention Tuesday. The entire first floor of the Grand theater will be assigned to the delegates for their exclusive use. Governor Thomas E. Kilby and Governor-Designate W. W. Brandon will be given boxes on the first floor.

The ten delegates from the state-at-large will be assigned seats on the first row of the center section. They are given the best seats because they are the representatives of the greatest number of people, the entire state.
Members of the state Democratic executive committee who will take office in January, who by virtue of their positions are delegates to the convention, will be placed on the second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh,
eighth, ninth, tenth and eleventh rows of the center section. After the delegates from the state-at-large and

Are These America's Prettiest Women?

Miss Neysa McMein, famous illustrator, has picked what she believes are the "twelve most beautiful women in America." They are, in order: Alice Joyce, motion picture actress, in private life Mrs. James B. Regan, Jr.; Mrs. Lydie Hoyt, New York society woman, who recently took up stage work; Christine Norman, actress; Lady Ribblesdale, formerly Mrs. John Jacob Astor; Winifred Lenihan, actress; Michael Strange, writer, in private life Mrs. Jack Barrymore; Mary Pickford, Ethel Barrymore, in private life Mrs. Russell Colt; Dolores, former "Follies" girl; Mrs. Angier B. Duke, of New York, society woman; Irene Castle, dancer, in private life Mrs. Robert Treman, and Hebe Huban, model, chorus girl and dancer.

CRACK TRAIN OF SOUTHERN ROAD WRECKED TODAY

(By International News Service.)
ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 6.—The Southern railway's Royal Palm Limited was wrecked today several miles from Jacksonville, Fla., when a switch was thrown after the lock had been filed in two, officers of the road here said.

Five pullman coaches and two day
coaches, together with the engine, left the rails, it was said, but first reports said no one was injured.

The Royal Palm is the Southern's crack tourist train, running between Chicago and Jacksonville. Officials of the Southern railway today declared the wreck was, undoubtedly, the work of men who deliberately attempted to ditch the fast flier.

A piece of metal was found driven in the split rails, where the switch was opened.

The wreck occurred at King's Road
7 miles out of Jacksonville.
Passengers aboard the Royal Palm
were transferred to the Southern's
No. 10 passenger, which was following. This train returned to Jacksonville and proceeded to Atlanta by way of Jesup.

FIGHTING BOB IS WISCONSIN WINNER

(By International News Service.)
MADISON, Wis., Sept. 6.—"Fighting Bob" LaFollette, seeking renomination as United States senator has swept Wisconsin by practically a two to one vote, returns from about one half of the state indicated today. His majority over William A. Ganfield will pass the 150,000 mark when all districts have been heard from, it was stated.

Revised returns from 1426, out of 2523 precincts gave LaFollette 174,
494, Ganfield 74,343.

STEPHENS LEADS
(By International News Service.)
JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 6.—Hubert Stephens, assisted by the influence of Woodrow Wilson, apparently has defeated former United States Senator James K. Vardaman in their runoff primary for the senatorial nomination.

Practically complete returns from 81 of the state's 82 counties, gave Stephens a lead of about 10,000 votes.
Latest returns available give Stephens 85,286 and Vardaman 71,535.

WELCOME BOOMED BY NAVAL GUNS AS HUGHES REACHES RIO

(By Associated Press.)
RIO DE JANEIRO, Sept. 6.—Guns
boomed from the warships of eight nations when the United States ship Maryland entered the harbor yesterday, carrying the American mission to the Brazilian centennial, headed by Secretary of State Hughes.

The Maryland anchored in the midst of the international fleet and exchanged salutes in which the harbor forts joined. Although the United States has not recognized Mexico, a gunboat flying the American flag saluted, and the Nevada, which accompanied the Maryland, returned the salute on orders of Secretary Hughes.

The Hughes party was driven to the Goanabara palace, their official residence.

BALLOTS PRINTED IN ALBANY RACES

Ballots today are being prepared for the municipal election in Albany on September 18. The ballots reveal three candidates for Mayor in the person of W. A. Brittan, H. O. Cline
and E. C. Payne, the incumbent.

There are contests for aldermen in only two wards, the first and fourth, these wards having more than two candidates. The candidates for al-dermanic places are as follows: for president of the council, W. V. Davidson and Chas. E. Sittason. First ward—Eddie D. Berry, E. G. Cherry, E. M. Odom. Second ward—Walter Williams, L. R. Yarbrough. Third
ward—J. W. McCall, G. W. Norwood.
Fourth ward—F. L. Chenault, Cliff H. Chunn, T. G. Crane. For chief of police—J. D. Bell, J. N. Hendrix, the incumbent, D. H. Lackey, J. R. Mullins.

Air Record Holder Ordered to Dayton

(By Associated Press.)
SAN DIEGO, Sept. 6.—Lieutenant James H. Doolittle, the army airman who late yesterday completed a flight
here from Jacksonville in record time, was busy today with plans for his next flying task. He has been instructed to report at McCook field, Dayton, O., and will leave Friday,
making the trip in easy stages.

W. C. T. U. TO MEET HERE IN OCTOBER; SPEAKERS NAMED

The Alabama Womans' Christian Temperance Union will open its state convention in the Twin Cities early in October, according to Mrs. C. W.
Black, one of the local leaders of the organization. Mrs. Black stressed the importance of the convention and said that among other distinguished speakers, that Dr. Valeria Parker, of New York, head of the morality crusade of the Union, would attend the convention and make a number of addresses. She stated also that Mrs.
Maude B. Perkins, leader of the Young People's department, would be one of the distinguished speakers. The state officers of the W.C.T.U. are as follows:

President, Mrs. Mary T. Jeffries, 1922 South Sixteenth avenue, Birmingham; vice-president, Mrs. Chappell Cory, Roebuck Springs, Birmingham; corresponding secretary, Miss Allie Garner, Ozark; recording secretary, Mrs. W. J. Renfro, 211 West
Troy street, Dothan; treasurer, Mrs.
R. A. Clayton, 339 First avenue,
Woodlawn, Birmingham.

ASK IMPEACHMENT OF DAUGHERTY AND JUDGE WILKERSON

(By International News Service.)
NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—The impeachment of Attorney General Harry
M. Daugherty and Federal Judge
Wilkinson as a result of the sweeping injunction obtained against the striking shopmen and other union leaders, was demanded in a telegram sent today by the central strike committee of the metropolitan district to United States Senator Borah, chairman of the committee on education and labor.

The injunction was characterized as a "violation by government officials of the constitutional guarantees of American freedom and specific federal statutes, without precedent in the history of the nation."

Why Overcoats Are Dark Color.
Overcoats are generally of a dark color for the scientific reason that dark colors are the warmest. They absorb in the winter all the heat possible from the sun and air.

HOPE FOR ENTOMBED MINERS IS LESSENER WHEN RESCUE CREW FIND DRIFT BLOCKED

Will Delay Efforts To Reach Trapped Men For Several Days.

MUCK AND TIMBERS
OBSTRUCTING TUNNEL

Miners Have Water And Air,
But Food Problem Is Pressing.

(By International News Service.)
JACKSON, Calif., Sept. 6.—Hope of rescuing alive the 46 fire-trapped miners in the depths of the Argonaut gold mine here today was materially lessened when rescue crews reported that after piercing one of the stone walls in the Kennedy mine, at the 3,600-foot level, they found the drift toward the Argonaut blocked with muck and broken timbers.

It is estimated the rescue work will be delayed for two or three days
by this unexpected obstruction before the rescuers can reach the last remaining 75-foot wall, separating the Argonaut from the Kennedy.

The obstructed tunnel, through which it is planned to reach the last remaining barrier is 350 feet long.
Part of it can be negotiated, but it is necessary to remove the greater part of the debris, in order to lay water pipes and tubes for the feeding of compressed air to the powerful drills which will be used to cut through the quartz walls.

Officials state that the entombed
miners have sufficient air and water,
but now the question of food to sus-tain life, if life still exists, is causing them anxiety.

RECORD NUMBER OF "PAPERS" SERVED

A record breaking number of subpoenas will have been served by the sheriff's office when all papers have been served for a term of the Morgan County court which convenes at Decatur Monday, Sept. 11. It is stated that there are over 700 cases docketed for trial in this court. Much of he accumulated docket is the result of not holding a session of the court in Spring, the presiding judge being influenced in his decision occasioned by the extreme wet weather prevailing at that time, and the further fact that farmers were so far behind in the work of the farm. Judge Lowe announces that he will clear the docket of the court, continuing the sessions from week to week, alternating between this point and Hartselle until the work is accomplished.

CUYLER DENIES MOVE.
(By International News Service.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—No conference has been held by the Association of Railway Executives with Bert M.
Jewell, or others representing the striking shopmen, according to a statement issued today by T. DeWitt Cuyler, chairman of the Association of Railway Executives.

"The statement that a settlement of the shopmen's strike has been effected is without foundation," Cuyler declared. "The roads are standing squarely on the plan adopted August 13. The executives are a unit as to this and are entirely satisfied with present conditions."

WOMEN ATTEND STRIKERS' MEET AT THE PRINCESS

The following official communication was issued today by H. C.
Hutchinson, chairman of the press
committee of the federated shop
crafts:

"Taking full advantage of their opportunity to attend the rail strikers'
meeting this morning, a large number of women and children were present and heard the reports and addresses of W. H. Wilson and S. E.
Roper.

"Following Mr. Roper the following ladies spoke: Mrs. T. Frank Lewis, Mrs. T. J. Martin, Mrs. E. G. Cherry,
Mrs. H. O. Cline, Mrs. C. J. Hardiman and Mrs. Claude Jones. Following the report in this morning's Tennessean,
in which an official pronouncement
from the Federated Church Council of America was read, Rev. R. F.
Stuckey made a voluntary address,
which was heartily cheered. Contributions of a number of persons were noted.

S. E. Roper denied reports that B.
M. Jewell had "sunk from sight with the money bag." Roper's reference to former President Wilson as "the greatest piece of humanity that has ever walked in this generation," was greeted with shouts and cheers. On the suggestion of a number of ladies, Tuesday and Friday were agreed on as the days women are to be admitted to the meetings.

MAKES BIG CATCH.

Clay Glasco today was receiving congratulations of his friends and was the object of envy of other fishermen because of a gigantic catch he made at Beaver Lake. The catch included five bass, weighing a total of 12 pounds.

Summer Stages Come-Back Here

Summer has staged a come-back,
and is laughing in the faces of swetering humanity, who evidently thought that during the few cool nights in August that old Sol had veered considerably to the far south.
Such seems not to be the case, and the hottest weather of the season is now being lavishly handed out to ci-zens of the Twin Cities. The mercury has the habit during the last few days of climbing upward to berth number 99, and remains there long enough to make collars ready for the laundry on short notice. The humidity is also great, adding doubly to the discomfort of humanity who must patiently bear it. Electric fans and fans of all kinds are being freely used, and many avail themselves each afternoon of the cooling waters of the Tennessee river in the effort to get the temperature to the comfortable point.

PERSISTENT RUMORS OF NEW CONFERENCE TO END RAIL STRIKE LACK CONFIRMATION

Washington Hears Road's Executive Will Meet To Discuss Issues.

COURT MODIFICATION OF INJUNCTION IS LIKELY

Probable Government Will Agree
To Elimination Of Certain Provisions.

(By Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—Seven representatives of striking federated shop crafts were declared
by John Scott, secretary of the railway employes department of the American Federation of Labor, to be in Baltimore today for a conference with railroad executives
on a proposition to end the strike.

(By International News Service.)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Decision
by the administration that the drastic Daugherty injunction against the striking railway shopmen is not to be enforced literally—to the point of abridgment of free speech and lawful, peaceful assembly—was accompanied today by a flurry of reports that new peace moves are afoot to end
the nine weeks strike of the federated shop crafts.

These new peace moves, definite confirmation of which was lacking, were reported to hinge about the efforts of B. M. Jewell, chairman of the shop craft unions; Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio, a pronounced "moderate" among the executives and T. DeWitt Cuyler, head of the association of executives.

It was reported in Washington early today that a conference of railway executives will be summoned to meet either in Washington or New York,
before the week is out, to start again
the machinery of adjustment to grinding.

Unusual secrecy surrounded the renewed efforts at adjustment. While details of the reported peace overtures were lacking this morning, the fact that both sides have apparently recognized the need of mutual adjustments was looked upon as a favorable and significant factor in the strike deadlock.

Government officials were quick to disclaim that they had any hand in directing the peace undercurrent. If new moves are on foot, it was said, they emanate entirely from the two parties to the controversy and not from the government.

As a result of the widespread criticism of those features of the Daugherty injunction which would prohibit meetings of strikers and public utterances by their leaders, it is probable that the government will voluntarily accept a modification of the restrain-ing order when the matter comes up before Judge Wilkerson in Chicago
next Monday.

President Harding and Attorney General Daugherty were both on record today as opposed to any enforcement of the injunction to the point where it conflicts with the constitutional guarantees of free speech and the right of peaceful, lawful assemblage.

The sole object of the injunction,
Attorney General Daugherty said,
was to prevent violence and disorder
and to prevent physical interference with transportation. He took the view today that the court's order already has resulted in a marked dimun-ition of disorder.

RETURN FROM GEORGIA.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Grizzard and sons, Lamar and Leonard, have returned from a two weeks' trip to Greensboro, Ga., where they visited their daughter, Mrs. L. J. Rogers.
They traveled via automobile, and report a most enjoyable time. Mr.
Grizzard was especially struck with the good roads of Georgia, and stated that it was certainly a pleasure to ride over them. The entire trip was made without any untoward incident
to mar the pleasure of the party.

WE FAVOR ACCEPTANCE OF HENRY FORD'S BID FOR MUSCLE SHOALS.

THINK A MINUTE. WHY?

If you are not interested personally or as a member of the community in which you live, why should your local newspaper fight your battles for you? Why should it combat the social evils and fight the public's battles that grow out of changing conditions from day to day, if you do not care which way the tide shall turn?

We ask these vital questions to any community—for they are such—because this is really the attitude many citizens take towards their newspaper, and Covington is no exception. They wait until the newspaper takes a stand, or speaks out upon a vital question, then should such a stand prove unpopular they do not hesitate to criticize. They are always knockers, never boosters.

Apparently so few realize or appreciate the fact that the local newspaper is the most potent factor, for good or for evil, that exists in the community, and it is really the last interest to which they turn in their support. Just why this should be so remains unanswered unless it is from the fact that the newspaper's mission and attitude is not valued or understood, or from the further mistake that it is considered commercialized, all of which are wrong as applied to the average newspaper.

Come, let us reason together. Answer the above questions raised and settle the question, "Would you want to live where no newspaper ever circulates?"

The newspaper is your friend; the community's friend. Stand by it and it will stand by you.—T. A. Slifton, in Covington, Ind., Republican.

TO SCHOOL AGAIN.

Many thousands of young men and women, boys and girls are again back in the school rooms of the nation, with buoyant hopes and expectations beaming from every feature of their countenance. It marks another most important epoch in their young life, and is the crucible which will refine their lives and eliminate the dross. It is an imposing sight, and one which will do anyone good to look in upon. There they are, the hope of the country of the future. Soon it will be placed in their hands, and there is vested in this great army of young people the potential qualities of leadership in church and state and at the forum.

Very soon those who now labor and grapple with the vexing questions which from time to time must be solved and settled, must lay down their insignia of authority, and it must be placed in the hands and upon the hearts of these who will soon qualify for entrance into the ranks of citizenship. A most serious responsibility, and one fraught with good or evil consequences, depending upon the wise solution when they are brought face to face with the great problems of life. There is every reason to believe that they will acquit themselves well, and from the tangled threads of right and wrong, they will separate the right and weave them into a fabric of government which will survive down the ages, blessing its citizenship, and welding and cementing it into one harmonious whole, with right and justice as their guiding stars.

A WORTHY WORK.

Those who are giving of their time to teach the adult illiterates, are doing something which places them in the line among the benefactors of the age, and is bringing to pass an era in the lives of these who for one cause or another, have not been blessed with the accomplishments of knowing how to read and write, and nothing of even the elementary principles of arithmetic. An instance of the benefits received by these adult illiterates, was forcibly brought to light recently, when a woman who had been doing a banking business appeared at the bank and notified the officials of the bank, that in the future her checks on the bank would bear her signature, and none were to be paid unless in her own handwriting. She was past 60 years of age, and this was the first time she had ever been able to sign her own name. It marked a great epoch in her life, and gave a feeling of security and independence not hitherto enjoyed.

To the men and women school teachers of this country much is being accomplished along this line. In many instances they give of their time absolutely free, during their period of vacation time, when they need and would enjoy a rest.

GOOD BEGINNING.

The fact of a sale by the Farm Bureau Cotton Pool association of 50 bales of cotton at 25c per pound, emphasizes the potential good points of cotton marketing through this channel. The sale was made to a cotton mill of this state, and was over three cents above the quoted market. The farmer has contended all along and rightly so, that manufactured goods from cotton bore too much profit, considering the price received for his cotton. The fact was the middlemen's profit was added by the mill which was legitimate, because the mill paid a larger price than the farmer received. The right solution of the matter seems to rest in the fact, that if the farmer can get his cotton graded properly, and through co-operative selling is able to make deals with the cotton mills of the country, he has found the remedy for many of his ills, and while not in the nature of a panacea, will go a long way toward helping the cotton farmer to get out of the rut and on his feet again.

NOTABLE SCHOLARSHIP GIFTS BY THE ALABAMA POWER COMPANY.

Gifts to education are permanent contributions to progress.

Commendation is meeting the proposal of the Alabama Power Company to establish five free scholarships—two at Auburn, two at the state University and one at the girls college at Montevallo. As stated by Thomas W. Martin, president, his company is especially interested in "training young men along engineering lines, which in large measure prompts this offer". And he proves his faith by deeds. The Alabama Power Company will pay $500.00 each to four young men and the same amount to a young lady, amounting to $2,500.00 in one year—and this company proposes to keep up these payments for a period of four years—making a sum total of $10,000 in four years to technical education. Although Mr. Martin does not say it in so many words his company will doubtless continue indefinitely the good practice of furnishing $2,500.00 a year to education in Alabama. With all that can be truthfully said of the superiority of the people of this state and of our natural advantage on every hand, Alabama is one of the most deficient states in the union in the matter of education. Many reforms work their way downward; and this is especially true of that biggest of human reforms—called education. In making the way easier for young men and young women to abolish ignorance, the Alabama Power company is helping combat civilization's greatest enemy to progress. The attitude of that company is in striking contrast to some of the leaders of the enlightened country of America who lived in the early days of the Republic. One such leader, a Colonial Governor of Virginia, publically advocated "Ignorance for the masses of the people". It is significant that Mr. Martin throws his proposed scholarships open to all—as he says—"There are no strings tied to our offer. The scholarships are free, and the scholarship holders without obligation. The presidents of the colleges are free to select the worthiest boys and girls from the scholarship applicants."

It is natural for President Martin to desire to promote technical education. In this connection Mr. Martin says, "We request the presidents of the two former colleges, all other things being equal, to select for these scholarships boys interested in obtaining a technical education. It would be our very great pleasure to offer to these boys positions in our technical departments, after graduation, if they prove competent," the "former colleges" referred to mean the University and Auburn college. The suggestion that the Alabama Power Company will furnish employment to such of the graduates who have benefited by its scholarships and proven competent, is meritorious, and will doubtless be noted with pleasure by the successful contestants for the power company scholarships. But four of the successful candidates for these scholarships have been named, the other one to be named at once by President Denny, of the state University. The "power scholars" already named are:

Auburn—D. E. Hart, of Andalusia; P. T. Ray, of Albertville.
University of Alabama—Ethelred L. Sykes, of Birmingham; other winner to be announced by President Denny.

Montevallo—Miss Wanda Burks, of Cullman.

Humanity is always coming to two diverging roads, and upon every occasion it is necessary to take one of them, and in every instance only one of them is the right road in the case. Often it requires careful consideration on the part of the traveler to know which one is right. So it is when one comes face to face with duties and responsibilities. On such occasions one must decide the issue in the individual mind. Frequently it is not an easy matter, and requires careful thought and patient analytical reasoning.

A rivulet or many of them make a stream; many little streams make a river; rivers make oceans, and oceans are broad expanses of water, that separate continents. In pretty much the same accumulating way, thoughts produce ideas; ideas grow into deeds; deeds represent the doings of a lifetime, and sometimes produce chasms across which it is impossible to bridge. If we were always careful to think only those thoughts of an uplifting nature; cheerful thoughts; thoughts of helpfulness, seeking thereby to radiate in every direction thoughts and deeds which would be of service to those we chance to meet in the busy lanes of life, much good would thereby be accomplished, and the acts would blossom all along the road of life, furnishing sweet incense to the giver and recipient as well. Most everyone remembers someone they have met who was always universally genteel and polite; to remember such is always refreshing, and they are never forgotten by us. At the mention of their name some incident will be recalled which is always pleasant to dwell upon.

The Bible says that "the meek shall inherit the earth", but just the opposite kind of people seem to have a cinch on it just at present.

The tender age has rescended until a modern two year old is a tough. And George Ade, says in a current magazine: "And if you want to get a dirty look, just tell any two year older that the doctor brought him in a satchel."

In the mean time what has Pollyanna got to say on questions of the day.

People who are sympathizing with the President, should pray most of all that he have his Republican Congress removed.

These are no times for a pessimist.

REMINISCENCES

By J. ADLAI WEST

The valleys and mountains of Morgan county are most beautiful to behold. There is inspiration to be gained by climbing to one of its rugged heights, and taking a view of the broad panorama of beauty spread out before the enraptured vision.

I stood upon a high pinnacle of one of the commanding mountains of my native county, just as day was receding, and glistening shadows of crimson light was being flashed from adown the western hillslopes, bathing the mountain tree tops in a shimmering blaze of golden glory.

As I faced the West, looking far down the valley, a carpet of green spread out before my enraptured gaze, the product of many honest toilers who lived in that peaceful valley, presenting a picture which poet could immortalize, and painter could fling on canvas, the most beautiful to behold.

By this time a crescent moon hung suspended in the clear blue above, and myriads of twinkling sentinels of the night were signalling a greeting to a world, now wrapped in the embrace of night.

Standing with closed eyes, the tinkling of a cow bell reached my ears, coming from the valley below, and in fancy I saw the winding lane which led from the pasture along the beaten path to the barn yard, and in fancy I could hear again the voices of those "whom I had loved and lost awhile." A panorama of forgotten scenes passed swiftly in review, and I was a boy again. I stood again before the old and decayed home, and peering through the dusty window panes, got a vision of a dingy mantel board, where erst while stood the old family clock with its tick tick tick tick, and to my childish mind the hours would never pass. I got a glimpse of a huge fire-place, around which an unbroken family had sit, and a bunch of clustered memories came thick and fast with an on-rushing tide which literally swept me into the land of childhood dreams, basking in the sunshine of their glorious reality.

I came to myself just as a deep mouthed pack of fox hounds passed by making it uncomfortable for a Mr. Red Fox across the rough mountain pass close by, and I completely forgot the scenes of a long ago, and became intensely interested in the present. It was the occasion of a fox hunt.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT "Smile and Look Pretty"

Copyright, 1922, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

THERE is "no sex in business," declares Mrs. Annette Adams, brilliant and successful lawyer of San Francisco. "Leave your smiles and your wiles at home when you go down to the office."

"There is sex in business," says Miss Geneva Shaffer, brilliant and successful real-estate woman—also of the same interesting place. "Smile and look pretty—it will help business."

"Shucks," said the Duchess, who up to this time had taken no part in the conversation. "What's it all about, anyhow—this discussion about sex in business? A pretty woman is a pretty woman, whether she's in business or out of it."

She'll be a success in business if she has a good business head—and if she hasn't, she won't—and that's all there is to that.

Her dimples and her bright eyes may bring her a client or two—but those clients won't buy real estate or legal advice very long for any such reasons as that—not clients who have any real money to spend.

Of Course It's Done

To be sure, I heard a gentleman known from one end of the country to the other as a successful composer say the other night that he had leaped his life four times, when he didn't want to insure it once—all because four different pretty women, representing four different companies, persuaded him to sign on the dotted line. I suppose the poor man thought he was telling the truth—but all the same I don't believe him.

No man could compose and produce over 20 successful comic operas and stay as susceptible and as impractical as that.

Dimples? Oh, yes, they're charming things! But when it comes to life insurance, I believe the good policy in one of the good companies is the policy that will be sold, even if the seller of it is cross-eyed and

Winifred Black

Personality is a wonderful asset in business—there's no doubt of that. But between brains and personality, between energy and personality, between determination and personality—I'm afraid personality does not always win the prize.

"Smile and look pretty," says Miss Shaffer. Excellent advice, which should be followed by every woman on earth, in business or out of it.

But to use your smile and your dimple and your pretty way of speaking to sell a house or sign up a new lease—tut, tut, my dear, that is scarcely ethical! You don't do it yourself, and you know you don't. What would any of us think of a man who used his smile and his masculine voice and his personal attractions to get silly women to sign contracts with him?

Done? Of course it's done, every day in the year and every hour in the day.

Just Plain "Shucks"!

There are men who make a living from the vanity and easy-going folly of women with money to spend. But nobody holds them up as an example for other and self-respecting men to follow.

A real woman is a real woman, and she can't help it—and doesn't want to help it. And it doesn't make any difference whether she sells real estate or teaches school or mends clothes or takes dictation for a living or not.

What she is is one thing—what she does is quite another. Going into business never turned a feminine, attractive woman into a masculine, unattractive imitation of a man.

And it never will. But to use that femininity cold-bloodedly, just as a screen actress uses her eyes and her smile in her profession—dear me, what an astonishing picture life would be—downtown!

Yes, I think the Duchess has the best of the argument.

"Shucks!"—that's the answer. Just plain "shucks," and no nonsense about it, either.

(By International News Service.)

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 6.—Detective Martin was shot and killed and Patrolman Bache was wounded in the leg in a gun battle with three automobile bandits whom they attempted to arrest when the men drove a bullet riddled automobile from a garage here at noon today.

All three suspects escaped, but one is believed to have been wounded. The machine bore an Indiana license tag.

Be Sure To Be There Promptly

Local Kiwanians are called to meet tomorrow, September 7, at a luncheon to be held at the Y.M.C.A. building. Tactfully approaching his brethren on the subject of a big turnout, the secretary says:

"Keep cool, fellows, keep cool. Funny, isn't it, how a fellow will get all worked up over politics, or religion or anything else, and think the weather is hot. Just wear a pleasant smile and come to the Kiwanis club meeting Thursday noon, September 7, at the Y.M.C.A., and see how pleasant and comfortable it is there."

The message of Mr. Morrison calls special attention to "International President's day" of the Kiwanians, to be held in Birmingham Friday of this week and asks that as many as possible attend this gathering. The 100 percent meeting set for October 5 is referred to as is the district convention to be held in Jacksonville, Fla., October 20-22, inclusive.

How to Make Common Sense Yield Big Beauty Dividends

By LUCREZIA BORI

The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

Lucrezia Bori

THE age in which we live seems to take everything at top speed. In our rush from one pursuit of life to another we find so little time for thousands of smaller things which we would like to do. Beauty practices, for instance, sometimes come under this head.

Then as the days roll by and the right moment never seems to come, she may lose heart. "What's the use of my determining to improve my looks?" she may think to herself in a moment of discouragement. "I never have time."

If you come under this head, Mrs. Busy Woman, you should remember that half the struggle lies in finding time. This is the big preliminary step. And after it is arranged the actual application amounts to little or nothing. You can accomplish this in the time you have been taking to think about it and wonder when you will do it.

Try putting this into practice and you will be surprised to find how many little things you can slip into the "in-between" minutes. Never contract the lazy habit of thinking, "Well, my fingers are not so well kept. I might judge some one else harshly for nails of the same kind. Oh, well, I never have time, anyway."

Remember that some one else will judge you harshly, and even if she may know what a busy person you are she will think you are a bad manager if you can't attend to other duties and do justice to your personal appearance as well.

There are certain things, then, that you cannot add to neglect. Fingers for their share of attention. After all, you can limit your beauty culture of these particular parts to short periods of time when you get up and go to bed. And you can draw great consolation from the following fact:

All other important beauty measures are simply common-sense practices which are as necessary to health as to beauty. Let us enumerate the most simple and sensible measures which are vital to life, and are the biggest factors in promoting beauty. We may consider them as ingredients which go into the oil necessary to run any delicate, high-powered machine.

Exercise, sensible eating, sleep, pure air and recreation are the five important things for you to follow. This won't be hard to do, for, after all, they come into the scheme of everyday living. It is infinitely easier, you will find, to do them just once than to neglect them. In other words, they are easier to take advantage of than to avoid, and you are so much happier by following them than this is pay enough within itself.

Exercise improves your looks and makes you more keenly alive and sensitive to the joy of living. Sensible eating needs no argument in its favor, for if you have ever indulged in the other kind you are likely to have paid the penalty. A good night's sleep with plenty of pure air to breathe makes a woman more attractive while a nap in the daytime, as I have said, lifts years from her shoulders. Follow these rules and you will enjoy every minute of your recreation, and make those around you happier.

YOUR HEALTH What the Colors of Eyes Tell About Our Population

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Commissioner of Health, New York City

DID you ever stop to think how much may be learned by a study of the eyes? You sometimes say you don't like the eyes of some person you have met. We think we can judge character somewhat by the eyes.

This may not be true, but at least we can tell a good deal about the health by observing the eyes. I may speak of this again, but just now wish to comment on the color of these organs.

By eye color we may to some extent determine the national origin of the individual. Most of the families in America came here within a few generations. We look back to some part of Europe as the place of our origin.

In Scandinavia, Scotland, northern England, and, perhaps, we may say Ireland, Denmark and northern Germany, is the home of the so-called Nordic race. The Nordics have clear blue eyes. The remaining portions of western Europe have brown or black eyes.

The mixture of these various races in the United States and in Canada has given America a variety in eye coloring. The northern states and Canada have the largest proportion of blue eyes. The southern states, with Spanish and French blood, show a much larger percentage of dark eyes.

I have been much interested in the changes which have taken place in the color of eyes since civil war days. When the soldiers were demobilized after the civil war and after the world war they were carefully examined. These two sets of reports are available, and they offer material for a fascinating study.

Let me point out a few changes. In 1885, Wisconsin had 533 blue-eyed persons per thousand, and it now has 539. Michigan has dropped from 522 to 458. Connecticut from 476 to 465. New York, 467 to 416. Illinois has increased its proportion of blue-eyed persons from 447 to 463, and Pennsylvania has jumped from 319 to 461.

It is apparent that Wisconsin, Illinois and Pennsylvania have increased their proportions of the Nordic race, while the other states mentioned have received into citizenship increased numbers from southern and eastern Europe. The color of the eyes is the outward and visible sign of the admixture of races. But, of course, the color of the eyes is not the only evidence of this intermarrying. There are many physical changes which might be studied in detail.

On the whole, it must be admitted that the intermingling of the representatives of various nationalities has made for a sturdy race of people. Nothing is worse than intermarrying within the limits of one family. Too many physical and mental faults are perpetuated and emphasized by this custom. But the mingling of the races in America has produced beneficial physical results.

"WORSE THAN PAIN"

Louisiana Lady Says She Has "Never Found Anything Better Than Cardui for a Run-Down Condition."

Morgan City, La.—"It would be hard for me to tell how much benefit I have derived from the use of Cardui," said Mrs. I. G. Bowman, of 1319 Front Street, this city.

"I was so run-down in health I could hardly go. I was thin. I had no appetite. Could not rest or sleep well. I was so weak, and so very nervous, I was no pleasure to myself."

"I suffered some pain, but the worst of my trouble was from being so weak and easy to get tired and out of heart."

"This nervous condition was worse than pain."

"Some one told me of Cardui, and I decided to use it."

"After using a few bottles, I regained my strength. I wasn't so nervous, and began to eat and sleep, and grew stronger and was soon well."

"I have never found anything better for a run-down condition."

"If you suffer as this Louisiana lady did, you, too, should find Cardui helpful for your troubles."

PRINCESS—TODAY

MRS. CARTER DE HAVEN IN "THE GIRL IN THE TAXI"

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

Some time ago I met a young man whom I became very fond of, and he in turn liked me. Everything went on all right until his brother came between us. I gave him up, and his brother and I became sweethearts. We went together for some time. I let him kiss me, and we had some good times together, but we couldn't agree, so it all ended in trouble. I let him kiss me, and we had some good times together, but we couldn't agree, so it all ended in trouble. I let him kiss me, and we had some good times together, but we couldn't agree, so it all ended in trouble.

I met the first brother a short time ago, and he asked me out. "What I want to know is should I speak to his sister-in-law if we should meet her with her husband and we were introduced? I don't want to speak to her, but I don't want to hurt my friend by snubbing her. I will never speak to her husband."

BUDDY: Speak to the young man's wife by all means, my dear. She never did anything to you. Don't speak to the young man, too. Don't hold malice. All of your quarrels are over and he is married. Why should you foster any unhappy feelings? If you want to do the womanly thing, when you meet him and his wife, greet them cordially and congratulate them.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I want to ask your advice pertaining to a certain girl I know. We are both 17 years of age. I have been out with her once at a party. She hasn't a very respectable name. Every one runs her name down. She has been in very bad company for the past year. I think that accounts for it. We have never been intimate, but she has asked me to be her friend. She is a very pretty girl, and very lovable. She has no other girl friends. Do you think that if I started going out with her I would be talked about? I am sure that if I did I could persuade her to lead a different life, as she is very easily influenced. I love her very much, and it hurts me dreadfully to think everybody shuns her wherever she goes. If I could help her, don't you think I should? Don't you think if she did change people would soon get to hear of it and be civil to her at least?

V. D. R.: I admire your generous and helpful spirit, my dear, and I think it would be a wonderful thing if you could aid your friend in putting her in a respected position—if you can do so without hurting yourself. Speak to your mother about it, just as you have to me. If she agrees to help you for you to go about it is to invite the girl to your home and let others see that you have received her there. Then, perhaps, following your example, the other girls will do the same. Good luck to you and to her, my dear. If your mother agrees you really can help her.

What They Like to Eat in Several Far-Off Lands.

HOW many stripes are told off to a roast of zebra only an African butcher can tell, but they do say that the black and white stripes cover equally good meat, which has a fascinating flavor for those who like it. If America has to feed a goodly portion of the earth's inhabitants, we may as well get accustomed to what they like to eat, and begin to provide whatever portion of it our markets can obtain. Paris boasts fresh camel meat straight from the markets of Algiers and Tunis with occasional roast ostrich, but we can hardly compete with these luxuries, though we know all about cooking and serving them if we could only get them. Besides enjoying the rare excellence of kangaroo-tail soup, the Australians have the wallaby, a wee member of the kangaroo family, which has often in recent days appeared on the hotel menus of some of London's smart hotels, for it is really only the wealthy who can afford these unusual foods. Kangaroo-tail however, we may enjoy here in America, as it comes in cans like our own oxtails.

It has been suggested by many experienced travelers that we really should cultivate hippopotami in our Gulf states, where water hyacinth and other water plants upon which they feed could easily be grown. The animals yield a prodigious amount of meat, which is tender and juicy, as the best leaves upon a vegetable diet. This plan would certainly "put a crimp" in the high cost of beef. As a result of the experiment that has been going on in Alaska, San Francisco markets are showing quite a lot of reindeer meat this fall, and it is finding as much favor here as in Russia and Siberia—another thorn in the crown of the beef trust. Egyptians have a weakness for crocodile food, which extends to a small portion of Spain. The few who are not vegetarians find it tender and juicy when properly cooked. Lion meat is used to a limited extent in South Africa, but the meat is strong and does not keep well, the lion being a flesh-eating animal itself. Monkey meat finds favor in some of the far eastern countries, but it is generally agreed that it is an acquired taste. Lizards, also, of a certain variety, are eaten, and curried lizards are a favorite dish in Ceylon.

While meat has ceased to be a novelty, and is quite a good second to corned beef for lunch-making. The trepan, a big caterpillar, which lives in the sea, makes an excellent stewed dainty in Japan. Geoduck, the largest clam in the world, makes its home in Puget sound. It just comfortably fills a bushel-basket, and rejoices in a wonderfully scalloped and decorative shell. It is said that one geoduck yields enough meat for a chowder for ten men. The deep-sea Pacific crabs, which weigh from five to eight pounds each, are in the geoduck class. Some persons like prairie-dog meat, wood-chuck meat and even porcupine meat. Goat and kid have always been Turkish and Syrian favorites—in fact, these people eat little or no beef. These are but a few of the foods that we may be called upon to furnish in the immediate future, and we may as well stop saying: "How can they—it is awful to think of it—I never could," for perhaps we could if we were as hungry as some of those who stand and wait for our bounty.

Maybe that hill is not there, after all—

VERY often the hill we seem to be climbing is made out of the common mistakes of diet which starve tissues and nerves and slow down energies.

How smooth and level the path seemed to be when we were younger.

Simple, natural food may level that hill to a smooth path again. Why not try it?

Begin today with a dish of Grape-Nuts with cream or milk—and fresh or preserved fruit added if you like.

Keep on with this crisp, delicious, strengthening food in place of heavy, ill-assorted, starchy breakfasts and lunches—and see if the old-time zest and speed on the old-time level path doesn't come back again.

Little Stories of Men and Women
Whose Sayings Are Still Remembered
By MARK STUYVESANT

How Beau Brummel's Cleverness Bore Him Everywhere.

So influential was George Bryan Brummel—"Beau Brummel"—as a dictator of dress and manners that his remarks about a king made that king really weep. This was George the Fourth, who was the ruler of England shortly after the time of the American revolution.

Beau Brummel made fun of the fit of King George's coat, and history relates that his majesty actually blubbered. The dashing Beau was not a fop. He was an elegant gentleman of polished manners, exquisite taste and pleasing wit.

He was appointed consul at Caen, France, and served his king and country creditably for a time.

While at Caen he showed his social security and audacity by going to a dinner where he had not been invited as a guest, and amused the entire English settlement by his polished impertinence.

Beau Brummel, while out strolling, happened upon an English friend. His inquirer of his friend where he was dining that evening. The friend said he was dining at a Mr. Jones's house. Mr. Jones was a retired millionaire soap manufacturer. The Beau said: "Very well, I shall see you there."

Whereupon his friend remarked in astonishment: "But, Brummel, you have no invitation."

"That makes no difference, I shall be there."

Imagine the friend's amazement upon arriving at the Joneses to see the elegant Beau being entertained as an honored guest, and paid all the deference that the Joneses could give to the representative of Great Britain.

When the guests were about to depart, Beau Brummel sent his man servant back into the house and the servant came out carrying a large package.

The Beau then related how that afternoon he had sent a fine pate de fois gras to the Joneses for a present. This was immediately acknowledged and accompanied by an invitation to dinner—as desired.

At dinner Beau Brummel expected to see his pate served, but was disappointed to find that it was to be reserved for the nursery. He decided then it was too good to leave with such unappreciative persons, and sent his servant to fetch it, and ordered him to put it in his carriage.

The next day he announced: "It was not honest, but as I cut into it this morning at breakfast, I almost felt justified, for I have never inserted my carving knife into such another pate!"

While at Caen, unfortunately, the famous Beau Brummel, the pride of English society, gambled heavily. His losses were so great that he was finally imprisoned for debt.

Once the friend of kings, the exquisite of his time, whose every word was hung upon and repeated, this distinguished man died not only in poverty—but insane.

But, even with his mind clouded and in dire straits, he still retained his fastidious exactness of dress—even though his clothes were ragged and always his very charming manners.

Mrs. Rodney Kendrick & baby Mrs. Edith Spreckles

Mrs. Rodney Kendrick, wife of a San Francisco newspaper artist, has refused to accept an offer she alleges was made her by Mrs. Edith Huntington Spreckles Wakefield to pay her 100 a month for life if she would get a divorce from Wakefield. Instead, she has filed suit for $25,000 for alienation of affections and has sued her husband for divorce, charging misconduct with Mrs. Kendrick.

COTTON MARKET.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—The cotton market displayed weakness at the opening today, at which prices were down 12 to 20 points. It was compelled to absorb further active hedge selling in accordance with pressure from Liverpool and Japanese interests. Buying that seemed to come from Southern mills, as well as local short covering, absorbed the offering and the list later was steady at a little above initial levels.

The M. C. H. S. grid squad began practice on the high school field Monday, under the coaching of Coach Waller, of Auburn. There will be five of the old men on the team this season, and 20 others from which to pick a first class team. After the workout Monday, Coach Waller is of the opinion that he can rapidly whip them into condition. Everybody is enthusiastic for the football team, and are anxiously awaiting the time for the first try for honors.

R. L. Maples, a well known citizen of this community, died at his home three miles east of town Saturday. Mr. Maples was a hard-working industrious man, who had by energy and care succeeded in owning him a nice home and farm. He had been sick for some time with organic heart trouble. He leaves a wife and several children.

The cotton gins of Hartselle blew the whistle Monday morning, announcing that they were ready to gin the cotton of this section. Several gins were ginned Monday, which had been bought during the last several days. In a very short time there will be a steady flow of cotton coming to town, and business will receive quite an impetus.

The dry weather of the past two weeks has cut off the yield of both corn and cotton, so say those who have investigated conditions, and are in authority to speak. Late corn will be considerably cut short. All garden stuff is drying up, and the ground is too dry for fall planting.

A case of diphtheria developed here today in the family of Mr. Haynes. A physician was summoned and antitoxin administered. The case was seen in its incipency, and it is not thought there will be any spread. All precautions are being taken, and quarantine regulations according to the state health authorities are being carried out in the home where the case is being treated.

Other scholars have come into both of the schools since the opening day, and the two schools are announced pretty full.

The Bee Line highway is closed to all traffic now. It is necessary to detour via Priceville or Norris Mill road. Work is now going on between the foot of the mountain and Flint. The road is now completed from the fair ground's north to the foot of the mountain.

Two new mercantile establishments are opening up in Hartselle for the fall business. Both of them will be on Main street.

Isaac Johnson and family, of Lawrence county, spent Sunday here the guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Riggs.

COMMUNICATION

Decatur, Ala., Sept. 5, 1922.
Editor, Albany-Decatur Daily,
Albany, Ala.

Dear Sir: Please announce through the columns of your paper that the Decatur Negro High school will open Monday, September 11, at 8 a. m. preparations for the largest enrollment in the history of the school are being made.

Last year the high school course of study was revised very much in order to bring it up to more modern scientific needs. This year the course has been further modernized, thus giving the school an excellent high school course as is now possible with the room we have in which to do this work.

Prof. Pickett as principal of the Decatur Negro High school and his teachers are striving to make the work of the school, make the home life of the children better, thus giving to the state a better and a more wholesome type of citizenship.

Most of the teachers and the principal of the Decatur negro high school attend summer school at the State Normal College at Montgomery, Ala. every summer. These teachers are taking the teachers professional training course which embodies the various phases of educational work. In this course of study the teachers study child life and how the minds of children function.

Respectfully,
J. E. PICKETT,
Principal

members of the state Democratic executive committee are seated the delegates from the senatorial districts and then the delegates from the counties will be seated. The first twenty rows of the three sections in the theater will be used in seating delegates.

The remainder of the first or orchestra floor will be set apart as conference seats for the delegates. Posters are being prepared now which will show each county delegation where it has been placed in the hall. Identification tickets are being printed which will be given to the members of the convention before the first session is held.

The balcony and gallery floors will be devoted to visitors. It is believed these floors and the boxes on the second and third floors will seat all visitors who will desire to attend the convention. Newspaper space has been reserved on the stage, tables being placed on either side of the table which will be used by the permanent chairman and permanent secretary.

"Waitin' for a train, stranger?" asked the talkative native. "Certainly not," replied the crusty traveler. "What do you think I'd be hanging around a railroad station for, with a couple of suitcases? I'm going to ride a camel from here to San Francisco."

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

We are two young girls who are strangers in this town. We have had several dates with different young men, but every one of them wants to kiss us.

We object to this, but we will not have any boy friends left, because they will not have anything to do with us after we refuse them.

What would you do if you were in our places?

SUNFLOWER and GOLDENROD:

Maintain your dignity and ideals, girls, even if you lose the friends you now have. Down in their hearts they will admire and respect you. Then, when the right young man comes along, you will be so happy to think that you held to your standards of propriety.

A Divorce Preventive.

It's a bond, not easily broken when a wife can shave her husband.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl 15 years old, and I am very fond of a young man a few years my senior, who does not seem to care much for any girl.

I've been to parties with him several times, and I have also been to his home.

Please advise me what I can do to win his affection and to have him call on me more often.

UNCERTAIN GIRL.

UNCERTAIN GIRL: There is nothing you can do without appearing forward and un ladylike, my dear. You will simply have to wait for any other advances to come from the young man.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am new in this town and can't seem to mix with the other people.

I cannot dance, sing, or ice-skate.

Seek Their Good Points.

Look for the best in everybody and love it when you see it and your manners will take care of themselves.

I have tried to learn, but I can't.

Another thing is that I am homely. I have freckles and natural red hair. I never before have had my looks make any difference. What shall I do?

NATURAL.

NATURAL: Just wait, my dear, and when people find out that you have something besides looks they will be glad to have you for a friend. It is always hard to make friends in a new place, so just be patient.

Don't worry about your looks. It is personality and character which attract people more than beauty, but it takes longer for them to find these out.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her, in care of this office.

Two Great Tire Values for the Light Car Owner

WHEN you note the prices quoted below on 30 x 3 1/2 inch ROYAL CORD and USCO Tires—bear in mind that while the price has been going down, the quality has been going up.

The New and Better USCO is bigger, with thicker tread and sidewalls, more rubber, better traction, greater mileage.

The ROYAL CORD is more than ever confirmed in its leadership as the measure of all automobile tire values.
